Description

1 negative : b&w ; 4 x 5 in.; Young woman, Joyce Ryono, sits behind the desk of Dr. George M. Uhl, between a Caucasian man and woman in Dr. Uhl's corner office for Girl's Week in Government program in Los Angeles, California, March 1958.

Dressed in a blouse tied with two pom-pom balls, a small hat with net veil and cat rimmed eyeglasses, the young woman smiles as she holds a pen poised above a sheet of paper. Uhl, Caucasian man in a suit at left, and a Caucasian woman in a white collared dress at right, lean over the desk flanking Ryono. The glass-topped wooden desk is covered with books, a small American flag, desk accessories and a name plate, "Geo M. Uhl, MD." Closed blinds in the background, right.
