Hello Johnny:

Well, you asked for it so here I go.

About the middle of Nov. I visited John Toshiyuki at Jerome & we had a talk about old times. Naturally I asked about the store and during the course of our conversation, John T. told me how liberally you aided him in disposing of his mdee. He had naught but praises for you & Brunswick & regretted very much that he had traded on such a large scale with Mr. Kesson.

Well, you know me. I always did try to get as much business as I could for you. So I decided to
